Seniors Pick O'Connell, Disney Vice Chairmen

The Senior Class Council this week appointed William B. Disney, '58, and Arthur H. O'Connell, Jr., '58, as vice-chairmen of the Senior Ball Committee.

In conjunction with the chairman, John H. Schwarz, Jr., '58, and newly-elected vice-chairmen, the council also selected 13 seniors to head the particular committees for the Ball.

Disney, a B.S. history major from Richmond, Va., received the appointment after a series of interviews by the Council. He is a member of the Sodality, parish chairman of the CCD and a member of the Executive Council of the IRJ.

O'Connell is a Worcester student and a B.S. marketing major. A member of the Sodality and Executive Council of the Student Congress, he is currently working on the Senior Insurance program.

Other Chairmen

Heading the list of newly appointed committee chairmen are Robert J. Martin, decorations, and James F. Proud, tickets.

Peter B. Baxter will make the musical arrangements for the affair, while Robert E. Bagot will release pre-Ball publicity. David T. McGinnis will secure the favors, and Michael T. Singelyn will arrange for the pre-ball affair.

John B. Hanley heads the attendants committee, while Donald R. Sweeney will attend to reservations for the weekend. Robert J. Bond will prepare the program and William J. Stolowski will provide the art work.

Paul M. Gelley will supervise the business details of the weekend, while Robert L. Muniz will manage the accounting chores. Bernard J. Hampsey will perform the secretarial tasks.

The chairmen will select their own vice-chairman next week and will contact members of their committees for preliminary meetings.

'59 Sets Ancient Rome As Scene Of Fall Musical

Contemporary college life transported to ancient Rome will furnish the setting for the musical presentation of the Class of 1959.

Juniors Thomas J. Craig, Thomas V. Giles and Ralph A. O'Connell collaborated to produce the book that will provide the plot for next fall's senior musical.

William J. McCormick, Jr., president of the Class of 1959 made the selection from among the four plot outlines submitted for consideration.

McCormick based the selection on the counsels of faculty members. The prospective appeal of the story to a college audience, the adaptability of the plot to a musical score and the financial considerations involved in scenery and other arrangements also influenced the final selection.

William F. Jacques, Jr., '59, will handle the musical score. The production still requires the services of lyricists. General organization for the show will begin early next semester.

McCormick expressed "his appreciation to all the members of the Junior Class who devoted their time, energy and interest to the production and submitting of plot outlines."

Cross Clinic To Promote Modern Math Teaching

by Chuck Comeau

"Mathematics teaching is nearly 40 years behind the times," stated Reverend Raymond J. Swords, S.J., chairman of the department of mathematics.

"Holy Cross has played, and is playing, a major role in a nationwide program to modernize our mathematics curricula on the college and high school levels," he continued.

The activity of the department includes some far-reaching programs announced by Fr. Swords. To aid in the trend toward a more theoretical and abstract approach to the teaching of mathematics,

Holy Cross will sponsor next summer a six-week institute, from June 23 to August 1. The institute will deal with the subject of modern mathematics and is open to all public and private high school teachers, as well as some college teachers, from Worcester and the surrounding area.

This clinic will be an outgrowth and enlargement of a similar one held last year. As a result of the last institute, two colleges revised their mathematics courses to conform to the new approach.

Optimism

"This leads us to look forward to the 1958 clinic with great optimism," said Fr. Swords. The teachers for the institute will be the members of the mathematics department, which includes Fr. Swords, and Professors Vincent O. McBrien, Patrick Shanahan, William E. Hartnett, John R. McCarthy and James H. Nestor.

As a preliminary to the clinic, the department will hold a day-long conference for all high school teachers on Saturday, January 18. The featured speaker at this meeting will be Reverend John W. Sullivan, S.J., of Boston College High School, an expert on the new teaching theory.

Another program announced is a weekly seminar to be held during the second semester for exceptional high school students in the area, from

Jesuit Professors Attend Annual History Convention

Four Holy Cross History Professors attended the 72nd annual Convention of the American Historical Association at the Hotel Statler in New York on December 28-30.

Reverend George A. Higgins, S.J., headed the Holy Cross delegation which included the Reverends Gerald A. Kinsella, S.J., Brendan C. McNally, S.J., and Maurice F. Reidy, S.J.

"Caste, Class and Power" was the general theme of the convention, which consisted of 47 panels. The groups discussed such topics as "West and East at Mid-Century," "Individualism and Anti-Intellectualism in American Thought," "Social History and History of the Arts," "The Historian and the Businessman" and "Spanish Absolutism: Old and New."

"A panel arousing particular interest concerned 'Alexander Hamilton after Two Centuries,'" Fr. Higgins said.

Hamilton Papers

Fr. Higgins continued, "Papers dealing with 'Hamilton: Rousseau of the Right' and 'Hamilton: the Theory of Empire Building' engendered special comment from the floor. In general, Hamilton appeared in this re-evaluation as a truly great conservative American statesman."

"Another panel which employed new historical techniques was titled 'Politics and Society in Colonial America.' Here, Virginia in the 17th century and Rhode Island in the 18th century served to demonstrate how the leaders in these colonies obtained leadership and power," Father Higgins reported.

Military Ball Lists Schedule

Co-chairmen Gerard F. Gilbert, '58, of the NROTC and William S. Busch, '58, of the AFROTC announced the schedule of events for the 1958 Military Ball, February 14, 15 and 16.

The festivities begin Friday night with an informal dance at White Cliffs in Northboro from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. The Cross Tones will provide the music.

Saturday afternoon, the Arnold Air Society will sponsor the queen's reception followed by a dinner. The Ball committee will announce the time and place at a later date.

At 8 p.m. Saturday night, the Ball itself begins. The Crusaders, the featured band for the evening, will play until midnight.

Military Mass

Sunday's events begin with a Military Mass in Memorial Chapel at 10 a.m., followed by a brunch in the Fieldhouse.

At 2 p.m. the scene will shift to Bronzo's in Shrewsbury for the Jazz Concert. Stan McDonald's band will entertain until 5 p.m.

Officers representing both ROTC units will form a judging panel and will choose the five finalists in the queen contest at the Friday evening social. The final selection will take place at the Saturday afternoon reception.

William B. McManus, '58, midshipman battalion commander, and Patrick J. Duffy, '58, cadet group commander, will crown her highness at the Ball following the introduction of the finalists and their escorts. The queen and her court will receive special gifts as a remembrance of the evening.

Gilbert and Busch expect 400 couples for the weekend.

The students and faculty extend their deepest sympathy to Reverend William L. Lucey, S.J., on the death of his sister, to John T. Allen, '61, on the death of his mother, to Reverend Gerald A. Kinsella, S.J., on the death of his father and to Daniel R. Fitzgerald, '58, on the death of his father. They will be remembered in our prayers.

O'Regan To Pick Gift

Francis M. O'Regan, '58, will assume the chairmanship of the class gift committee of the Senior Class. Hugh F. Crean, president of the Class of '58, made the appointment.

O'Regan is an A.B. English major from Brooklyn, N.Y. A member of the Purple Key and the Sodality, he is currently the co-chairman of the Decorations Committee for the Military Ball. He also served as chairman of the Metropolitan Club's Christmas Dance and as toastmaster of the Christmas banquet on campus.

Gift Committee

In the coming weeks, the Senior Council will assign a committee to assist the chairman in selecting a gift.

O'Regan stated that he "will be very pleased to accept suggestions from the Senior Class." He emphasized that "the making of suggestions is open to all seniors—it is not a one-man job." The committee will aid him in choosing the best suggestion. O'Regan and Crean will make the final decision in April.

Permanent Gift

O'Regan stated that "the two thousand dollars we have at present may or may not be sufficient to cover the cost of the gift." He further assured the class that "the gift would be one of utility and would be a permanent fixture on the campus."

Francis M. O'Regan, '58

Placement Prospects

January is a month for snow, ice and examinations but it is also a time for seniors to think seriously about opportunities in their chosen career. During the remainder of this month and for several months to follow, interviews will be conducted at Holy Cross under the auspices of the placement office. For seniors they are a must. Underclassmen too would do well to give them some thought.

It is not too often that worthwhile things are offered on a silver platter but that is almost the situation regarding job interviews. Few things could be easier. Notices as to the date and place of the interview appear a week in advance. The time of the meeting is set to suit the student. All he is asked to do is to be there on time. And yet, despite the obvious benefits of doing so, many do not bother to take interviews at all. Nothing could be more foolhardy.

Leaders in their Fields

The men who give the interviews are recognized leaders in their fields. They have, at their fingertips, valuable information for the college student. If you are interested in a field and want to know more about it, a job interview will give you the information you want.

Seniors, especially, because of the proximity to graduation should welcome the opportunity to find out about academic requirements, starting salary and advancement in their chosen career. Underclassmen could use the interviews as a guide to elective courses and future plans. In some instances valuable summer positions are available to those who apply.

A job interview now could well be the key to success in an interesting career in later life. It is time well spent.

Scientific Survey

America is lagging in the race for technical superiority with Soviet Russia. A swift glance at the nation's tabloids tells the story why — our schools just aren't producing the topnotch scientists and mathematicians needed.

The reason for the scarcity? Holy Cross' mathematics department and others have come up with the answer. High schools and colleges are way behind the times in their teaching methods in mathematics, physics and chemistry.

Sponsor Summer Seminars

What is needed, they claim, is more concentration on the theory behind these subjects and less on the mechanics of them. How to correct this deficiency? Sponsor seminars, such as the one to be given this summer at Holy Cross for science and mathematics teachers.

The new $2,000,000 science building to be constructed in the spring is another step in the College's advance in the scientific field. Holy Cross has long been a leader in the field of scientific education, but has been burdened somewhat by limited and inadequate facilities. The new building will ease that burden.

Catholic institutions of higher learning are being criticized lately for laxness in scientific progress. Holy Cross is doing something about it.

Veteran Counsels Dawn-Club Rookies Good Alarm, Deep Breaths, Informality

by John O'Shea

The steady, annoying buzzing of the all-weather, never-failing travel clock impressed upon my subconscious the urgency of rising. A glance at the chrome time piece showed the hour to be 5:55 a.m. Yes, we are on the Dawn Patrol.

Now, being veterans of many sixth-hour flights to the venerable Discipline Office, we feel the need to pass on to the "greenies" some helpful advice.

First of all, try to obtain an excellent alarm clock, for at this bewitching hour you are on your own.

Your roommate might hear the alarm and he might not. If he does, he will undoubtedly let you sleep because all roommates are intrinsically evil or because he cannot focus on why the alarm is ringing at 5:55 a.m.

Place the alarm a good distance from your sack so that you will be forced to drag your numb body out of the bed in order to shut it off.

Now, if you check closely you will discover that you are up. However, there are many who do not realize this fact even though they may be standing erect a good five feet from the bed and calling on every ounce of their intellect to help them find the shut-off switch. Many return to the irresistible bed without once realizing the important mission they must carry out. A sign, rather large, inscribed with the immortal letters "D.P." placed next to your alarm should rectify this situation.

Dawn Styles

We suppose that the style of dress is best determined by the garb worn by our fellow Dawn Patrolers. Pajamas are in evidence everywhere, sprouting out below clean pairs of polished chinos. Collegiate hats are extremely fashionable. Thus, one can gather that any type of dress is accepted.

When you arrive at the door of your building, brace yourself, because it's cold out there. The best plan of operation is to take two or three deep breaths of the frigid air. This rapidly accustoms the warm body to the miserable cold air.

If you are a senior, you drive to the D.O.; if a member of any other class, you walk, run, roll, crawl or skid to the office.

Characters In Comic Strips 'Not For Real,' Says Critic

We stopped by a neighborhood drug store the other night to replenish our supply of drugs and noticed two nine-year-olds engrossed in a Superman comic. Strolling back to the Hill we mused over the world of comic-strip characters.

How long would Clark Kent last in contemporary society we wondered? You know the answer. The first time he changed costumes in a phone booth, some prudish old woman would scream for a gendarme. He would get a quick cell for his folly.

In real life, too, Superman would never sail out of windows and breath-takingly fly off to thwart the usual evil mobsters while crowds on the street chanted, "Is it a bird? Is it a plane? No, it's Superman!" Not on your life. He would no sooner hook one leg over a ledge when someone would grab his cape and hold on until the men from the loonie bin came for him.

Do you think Lois Lane would miss seeing that Superman and Clark Kent were one and the same? Fat chance. There just couldn't be more than one person running around with blue hair.

Superman is not the only comic character who would be hopelessly lost if set adrift in real life. Do you think the New York Police Department would let Batman and Robin get away without having license plates on the Batmobile? Or travel at that rate of speed?

Batcave Tax

You aren't so innocent as to believe that Batman and Robin pay personal property taxes on all that stuff in the Batcave, are you? Why the tax people would have them behind bars in twenty minutes. And they are supposed to be champions of all that is right and good!

We give Little Orphan Annie and her grinning canine companion, Sandy, no more than ten minutes. They would walk into the nearest open manhole. Everyone knows that you can't see without pupils in your eyes.

But even if comics are unrealistic, the younger generation seems content with them. Youth is the time for such fantasy and nonsense. And now, you will pardon us, we have to go watch the Mickey Mouse Club.

Sneak Preview

Date: Friday, January 10.
Title: "Young Man With A Horn."
Starring: Kirk Douglas, Lauren Bacall, Doris Day, Hoagy Carmichael.
Plot: Kirk Douglas plays Rick Martin, sensitive musical genius. After a slow start, Rick attains fame, wealth, a torturous marriage to a neurotic wife and a quick descent. He is rescued by bright-eyed, true and smiling vocalist, Doris Day.

Comment: A good film is helped considerably by Harry James' great sound-track.

Title: "Jim Thorpe — All-American."
Starring: Burt Lancaster.

Plot: Burt Lancaster is seen as the Sac and Fox Indian whose athletic feats won him a memorable position in American sport history. The film portrays Thorpe's record-breaking triumphs in track and field, baseball, football and the 1912 Olympics.

Comment: A fine, if familiar, tribute to a great athlete.

Mission Movie—Double Feature.

Date: Saturday, January 11.
Title: "The Tin Star."
Starring: Henry Fonda, Tony Perkins and Betsy Palmer.
Plot: Once again, Hollywood sets up on the Kimball stage the false-front buildings of a small town of the "old West." As usual, the local preserver of law and order (in this case Tony Perkins) is having his troubles with the ever-present "bad guys."

Into town rolls Henry Fonda, a bounty hunter, seeking two friends. For some reason he decides to help Perkins, who by now has lost complete control of the situation.

The duo of Fonda and Perkins manage to bring about the inevitable happy ending as the equine opera roars to its conclusion. Betsy Palmer supplies the wit to an otherwise worn-out Western plot.

Comment: Stiff competition for "Have Gun, Will Travel" and "Gun-smoke" which will be ensconced in the small cafeteria Saturday night.

Rector Attends Forum Of College Presidents

Recently, Very Reverend William A. Donaghy, S.J., President of Holy Cross, returned from a conference held January 2 to 4 in Washington, D. C. The conclave included the 28 presidents of the American Jesuit colleges and universities.

The conference met to discuss modern educational trends in general and the need for a readjustment of present practices to meet these new trends. A good deal of the conference consisted in a discussion of President Eisenhower's program of federal aid to education.

No Private Aid

The conference revealed that statutes in 35 of the 48 states do not permit federal aid to private institutions. The president of Fordham University, Reverend Laurence J. McGinley, S.J., expressed a view that "church related schools are an integral part of our educational system and any federal aid program should aid what this country already has and not attempt to destroy existing educational institutions by non-support."

President Eisenhower's plan will attempt to reduce the waste of talent by aiding those worthy students who would not be able to attend college otherwise.

The conference of Jesuit college presidents discussed the aid program carefully and established the Jesuit Research Association. The purpose of the organization is to pool the talents and facilities of the 28 United States Jesuit colleges and universities under a national chairman.

Lt. Cmdr. Gorman Takes Helm Of 'Ham' Radio Club

John J. Jeffrey, '58, president of the campus Amateur Radio Society, announced this week the appointment of Lt. Cmdr. Raymond Gorman, U.S.N., as moderator of the club.

Holy Cross' "ham" station, W1UYY, uses U.S. Navy equipment, operating on the maximum permissible power of 1000 watts.

Jeffrey said the station contacts the amateur network every afternoon at 5 p.m. He stated that anyone may send a message anywhere in the country by submitting the request to P.O. Box 298 or at the station.

Procedure

Peter V. Fazio, Jr., '61, explained the "hams" transmitting procedure: "The station sends the message to the amateur network where the operator nearest the destination picks it up. This operator then phones or mails the message to the addressee. With operators throughout the country, the 'ham' network attains a great speed of communication."

'That's The Rub' To Tour; Marymount, Regis On List

"That's the Rub," the Senior Class Musical, begins its road tour at Marymount College, Sunday, January 12.

The company of "Roaring Twenties" underworld characters and flask-toting, Charlestoning collegians will play to audiences in Tarrytown, Worcester and Boston, January 12, 13 and 14. Business manager Peter J. Mercier, '58, handled the schedule arrangements.

The Marymount performance schedules the musical following a 4:30 p.m. supper dance. Monday will see it making a return performance at Fenwick Auditorium for Very Reverend William A. Donaghy, S.J., president of Holy Cross, who was in Rome when it originally appeared. Curtain time is 8 p.m. and reduced prices will admit students for 25 cents.

Tuesday, the company moves to Regis College for an 8 p.m. performance.

Tentative arrangements list bookings in Washington, February 22, at Gonzaga High School Auditorium. The CYO of that city is to sponsor the play with invitations to Trinity and other local colleges.

Outing Club Sets Annual Ski Trip For Green Mts.

The Green Mountains will again lend their slopes to Crusader ski enthusiasts over the weekend of January 31 to February 2, during the semester recess. Stowe, Vt., self-styled ski capital of the East, will be the scene of the fifth annual Outing Club ski trip.

Crusader outdoorsmen will find themselves able to risk life and limb on any of 15 slopes scattered over Spruce Peak and Mt. Mansfield. Mt. Mansfield Toll Road is adjudged the safest slope for beginners, while the other 14 slopes run the gamut of difficulty right up to the National Trail, advertised as "for experts only."

Three T-bar lifts, two chair lifts and a tow rope provide ready access to the slopes for those who care to leave the warmth of the "Great Indoors" to venture into winter sports. For those whose taste runs to more convivial pleasures, the area features 51 ski lodges and inns.

The Holy Cross contingent will stay at Cor Unum, home of the famous Trapp family of singers.

Accommodations for 56 are available on a first-come, first-served basis. The $9.00 charge includes lodgings for Friday and Saturday night, breakfast and dinner Saturday and breakfast Sunday.

Tickets will go on sale Monday in the Post Office lobby during the lunch period.

Classes Continue While Snowdrifts Pile High On Hill

High winds and 13 inches of snow swarmed over Pakachoag last Tuesday night, burying local road communications and raising local students' hopes of a possible day off.

Reverend J. Leo Sullivan, S.J., director of the College's purchasing and maintenance, called on his fleet of four truck-plows and sanders and had the main roads navigable for Wednesday morning classes.

Fr. Sullivan, a veteran campaigner against Worcester's annual snow menace, explained his strategy: "Our first duty is to open the main roads for traffic. Once accomplished, the major work is done. The job was more difficult this time because the unusual 'wetness' of the snow made the drifts extremely heavy."

"The biggest headaches," he continued, "are the drifts and steps which have to be cleared manually."

The operation is so efficient that Fr. Sullivan recalls classes have been called off only "twice in the last 15 years" due to snowstorms.

Veteran Patroller Advises 'Probies' On Dawn Society

We are now in the office and guess who isn't here yet, "The Prime Checker Inner!" Now, after the vigorous struggle against the elements, you have entered the warmth of Kimball and this reacts on your body to make you extremely sleepy. Thus you settle down on the benches, the tables and the oft-scrubbed floor. Just as you are entering the arms of Morpheus, you hear the familiar, "Aw right, let's go." You get in line, give your name when your turn comes, and the ordeal is over, or is it?

Biggest Problem

You are now faced with your biggest problem, whether or not to return to the sack. You have about 40 minutes before Mass, and 40 minutes of sleep at this point is very welcome, indeed. But, how many times have members of this esteemed group made their early check and then slept through the late check, the one at Mass? The figure is astronomical. If you stay up for 40 minutes, you are miserable just thinking of the fact that you could be sleeping. This problem, we're afraid, will go unanswered as long as there is a Dawn Patrol. We suppose the simplest solution is not to overcut, but for some of us this is not easy. Oh, well, see you at six.

Mock Trial's newly selected prosecution attorneys (from left) Thomas V. Giles, '59, Robert P. Roche, '58, and William J. Williams, '58, meet defense: Thomas G. Conway, '58, and Gerard F. Norton, '59.

The St. Thomas More Pre-Legal Society this week announced the scheduling of the annual Mock Trial for Wednesday evening, March 19, in Fenwick Auditorium.

Four seniors and two juniors will portray attorneys in the presentation. Selections for the prosecution are William J. Williams, '58, Robert P. Roche, '58, and Thomas V. Giles, '59. Thomas G. Conway, '58, Myles Hannan, '58, and Gerard F. Norton, Jr., '59, will plead for the defense.

Murder Speech

Candidates for the position gave a five minute opening or closing speech to murder trials of their own invention. Reverend George A. Higgins, S.J., Society moderator, Robert K. Marzik, '58, trial chairman, and other members of the advisory council made the selections.

Williams is an A.B. pre-legal student from Tuckahoe, N.Y. He participated in the Mock Trial last year and is a member of the B.J.F., Cross and Scroll and the staff of WCHC.

An A.B. history major from Detroit, Mich., Giles is the Society treasurer, a member of the Purple

Key, Drama Society and B.J.F. He was last year's winner of the Nellie M. Bransfield Award for elocution and is collaborating on the book for the '59 Senior Musical.

Norton is from Bronxville, N.Y. and an A.B. pre-legal student. He is a member of the tennis team. An A.B. pre-legal student from Kingston, N. Y., Conway is the Society vice-president, B.J.F. president and a member of the Sodality.

Senior Prosecutor

Roche is an A.B. honor pre-legal major from Albany, N.Y. He is a Glee Club soloist and student director, a member of the Paks and the Aquinas Academy.

Society president Hannan is an A.B. pre-legal student from New York City. He is a member of the B.J.F. and the tennis team. Last year he was the Society treasurer.

The Society will later select the witnesses in the trial from its membership.

Initial Trial

Last year the Pre-Legal Society presented its first mock trial as part of the program for its initial year.

The now defunct CRA previously handled the production.

The Society presented a re-enactment of the famous Sacco-Vanzetti trial. The trial ended with a hung jury and thus did not concur with the verdict of "guilty" returned in the actual trial.

Paul A. Bornstein, '57, acted as defense attorney, with John E. Donegan, '57, handling the prosecutor's duties. John J. Wade, '57, served as chairman.

Faculty Jurists

Faculty members served as jurists, while Robert Gallagher, Registrar of Deeds for Worcester County, presided over the proceedings.

Members of the Society wishing to participate as witnesses in this year's presentation will audition early next semester in Fenwick Auditorium.

Christmas Scene Campus Highlight During Holidays

The Christmas holidays saw Worcesterites flock to Pakachoag to admire the Christmas Crib setup on Linden Lane.

Built and designed by the A. Dapreto Company of Boston, the Nativity scene is 40 feet long, 15 feet wide and 18 feet high. Backed by an authentic replica of a stable, 32 full-size statues play a large part in the display.

The Crib was the primary gift of the Class of 1952 to Holy Cross.

For the first three Yuletide seasons, this representation of Christ's birth stood on the terrace in front of Beaven Hall, facing Linden Lane.

New Site

The position of the Crib in front of Beaven proved unfavorable. Visitors stopping in cars on Linden Lane to get a better glimpse of this unique Christmas display caused traffic jams, necessitating the moving of the Crib to its present site opposite O'Kane.

Plans for next Christmas tentatively include the addition of a thatch-type roof to the "stable."

Chemist Talvey To Give Lecture

Dr. John J. Talvey, '48, will address the members of the Cross and Crucible Society on Monday evening, January 13, at 7:15 p.m. in Room 17.

Dr. Talvey will speak on the "Aspects of Chemical Research," emphasizing the role of a research chemist at a company such as American Cyanamide. He will discuss the possibilities for advancement and also the problems facing a research chemist.

Dr. Talvey worked as a research chemist in the field of plastics for the American Cyanamide Corporation after receiving his Doctorate in chemistry from Notre Dame.

Purple Quintet Wins Fourth In Row; Tourney Win Highlights Yule Slate

by Laurie Brown

The Holy Cross Crusaders kept their win streak alive and raised many eyebrows as they convincingly defeated A.I.C., 100-85. During the past four weeks, the Cross has shown flashes of greatness and there have also been times when their play left plenty to be desired. However, continued improvement has been shown and it now looks as if they have found themselves with the annexation of their fourth victory.

Last night's game at A.I.C. was a lot closer than the score indicates. In the first half, the lead changed hands about a dozen times. A.I.C. held the lead early, but could not keep up with the Purple reserves, who came off the bench to spark a Holy Cross surge. Senior Kenny Kunzman hit four out of five sets to give the Cross a 42-34 halftime lead, their longest of the night.

The second half started at a fast clip and Andreoli hit a chippy at the ten-second mark. A Hughes jumper added to the margin and at the five-minute mark the Crusaders found themselves on the fat end of a 60-44 score. Jim Farrell, Ron Liptak and Kunzman then came in to run A.I.C. and their 2-1-2 zone off the court.

Final Whistle

When the nal whistle had sounded, the Cross had racked up an impressive 15-point victory. The play of the reserves deserves special notice as two of them, Farrell and Kunzman, collected a total of 21 points. Joe Hughes and Art Andreoli led the Crusader scoring with 15 each.

Previous to the A.I.C. victory, the Crusader quintet compiled a 3-2 holiday record. Payne-Whitney Gymnasium was the scene of a hectic battle which saw the highly-touted Eli of Yale come roaring back from a 16 point deficit to pull out an 80-75 overtime win. The Crusaders opened up fast and built up a 37-28 halftime lead.

After intermission, the Cross found itself in a serious personal foul situation, and before eight minutes had elapsed, it had lost the services of Tom Ryan due to five personals. Jack Whelan followed him to the bench just three minutes later. With the two Crusaders assigned to bring the ball up court out of action, the Bulldog press began to pay off. The lead

HC Swordsmen Drop First Match To BU Terriers

The fencing team opened its season against BU on December 14 with a 17-10 loss. Led by player-coach John Wyser-Pratte, who won 3 out of 3 matches in foils, the Cross took an early lead by winning 7 of 9 in this particular field of competition. But, due to the absence of some regulars, the Cross slumped badly and was able to win only 3 of 18 contests in the saber and epee events.

Practice

Since approximately half of this year's team will graduate in June, freshmen and sophomores who are interested are invited to come out for the team. Practice will take place in the gym on Wednesday afternoons between 3:30 and 4 p.m.

Following exams, the schedule calls for matches with Yale on February 5, UConn on February 12 and Trinity on February 27. The team faces Harvard on March 5, and appears in the New England Invitational Tournament later in the month.

BATTLE OF THE BOARDS . . . takes place in the Brown game between HC's Ralph Brandt and Brown's Allen Poulsen. Brandt won the battle. HC won this opening-round game of the Worcester Tournament, 72-52.

Frosh Hoopsters Boast Perfect Season Record

The Holy Cross frosh five, who generated little enthusiasm in the pre-season rumors, have proved the forecasters wrong as they have developed into an undefeated high-scoring club. The Crusader Cubs added three wins — Yale, Leicester Jr. College, and Assumption JV — over the Yule break to bring their record to 5-0.

Averaging 84 points a game for these three, the Frosh started out by beating Yale, 86-78, on the same day that the rest of the school headed home for the "24-day" break.

George Blaney dumped in 25 points to lead the Crusader scoring in this win. Paul Cervini was close behind with 21 in the free-scoring contest. Spencer Thompson with 15 and Ted Breslin with 12 completed the Crusader list of men who hit double figures.

Then the Cubs took on Leicester Junior College and mauled them, 87-69. Worcester's Cervini led the way with 30 points on 11 field goals and eight free throws.

Double Figures

This game saw five men break into double figures for the Purple frosh: Cervini, Blaney, 16; John Connors, 14; Thompson, 13; and Breslin, 11.

In the final game of their Yule schedule, the Frosh joined with the varsity in a double victory over their intra-city rivals, Assumption. They bombed the Assumption JV by 26 points, 79-53.

The scoring was well spread out in this contest, which saw the Frosh make it five wins in a row. Cervini led the way again with 18 points, this time for the home folks. Blaney and Tim Shea were close behind as they each poured in 17 markers.

Cross To Face UConn, Orange

by Joe Dorsey

Holy Cross' court Crusaders go after their fifth straight conquest tomorrow night against the Huskies of UConn at Storrs. Roy Leenig's charges are looking forward to this tilt and the following one against Syracuse with new-found hope.

The Blue and White Huskies have proved a disappointment so far this year. They were unable to come up with the right answers against Yale, Boston College and Manhattan. On the other hand, HC is fresh from victories over their last four opponents.

HC Stickmen Lose 8-0, 6-2 As 1958 Schedule Begins

The Holy Cross hockey team opened its 1958 season last Friday night and suffered an 8-0 loss at the hands of the University of New Hampshire.

The outcome was the result of a lack of practice and depth on the part of the Purple squad. They entered the contest with only a week of practice behind them and even then they were only able to produce two lines for the game.

Two sophomores, Kenny Keyes and Kevin Kelly, highlighted what there was of the Crusader attack and added hope for future success to the team.

Second Loss

On Tuesday night, the Crusader skaters took part in the Worcester Jamboree and dropped their second tilt to American International College, 6-2. Ed Leahy scored the first goal of the game for the Crusaders and for about ten minutes Holy Cross led. Then, on a rare penalty call, A.I.C. was given a free shot and tied it up.

While the Crusaders were hampered with men in the penalty box, A.I.C. scored three more times. Then Keyes, a former Greater Boston Area All-Star player, passed to Bill McCullough who scored the final Purple point. After that, the visitors completed their victory with two more goals in the final period.

Six-foot, eight-inch Al Cooper tops the UConn attack from his pivot post. At forwards, the Huskies use Bill Schmidt and Paul Kaspar. Captain Jim O'Conner and sophomore sensation Jack Rose man the guard posts. The Crusaders must yield a definite height advantage, but to date UConn's big men have not matched their size with a corresponding aggressiveness.

The Orange

Returning home Wednesday night, the Cross takes on Syracuse University. The Orange have also been taking their share of bumps. Colgate, Niagara and Iowa claim victories over Marc Gulley's five.

A mediocre point-producing offense has forced the Orange to fall back on their solid defense. As a result, Syracuse fans have seen a slow, deliberate moving club in contrast with the teams of former years.

Starting Five

Jon Cincebox, 6' 7" junior center, and guard Ed Goldberg have paced the attack. Hal Noyes and Larry Loudes operate in the backcourt, while Bruce Schneltzer rounds out the starting five.

Even though both these clubs have not lived up to their potential so far this year, they can give the Cross a tough time. Should the Crusaders prove equal to the task, they will take a big step toward regaining New England supremacy.

Purple Pennings

by Bob Byron, Sports Editor

Memories . . .

It is a new year, and it is also one CRUSADER away from the time when this reporter of HC sports will put aside his "Purple Pen." A new year brings to some a pause and a recollection of the outstanding events of the one that has just passed — so, at the end of our three and a half years of recording Holy Cross sports, many memories are recalled and these are the top four as we see them.

December, 1956 Holy Cross 7 - Boston College 0. This, above all other HC victories, will never be forgotten. This was the high-point. The background of this game and the sudden rescue from another year of despair in the last seconds of this heartbreaker have to make it number one on the list. At the time of this game, not one student had seen a win over BC during his undergraduate days at Holy Cross. BC had beaten us three straight times, and the cry of the day was, "Don't let the seniors graduate without a win over BC."

The game for the first 58 minutes was one of frustration for the Crusaders — four times the Cross threatened and four times they were stopped. Then with 1:45 remaining, quarterback Billy Smithers took over. He ran for 20 yards, passed for 8 and 18 and then, with the ball on the 20-yard stripe, he hit "Butch" Toland in the corner of the end zone for the winning score. Bedlam broke loose — the players were mobbed — the steel goal posts fell — pandemonium reigned supreme — the Cross had finally beaten BC.

The second memorable event took place on the Madison Square Garden hardwood — and it was a loss for Holy Cross. The opponent was Temple and the final score was Temple 74 - HC 72. Fourteen-hundred ears were glued to radios on campus that Monday night, March 12, 1956, as the Crusaders took on the nationally-ranked Owls in the opening round of the NCAA Tournament.

The game was close all the way — the Cross jumps to an early lead, but is behind at halftime — again HC takes the lead only to lose it with 20 seconds left to play — Temple leads 74-72 — the Cross has the ball — they work it in to their All-American, Tommy Heinsohn — he shoots with five seconds left and misses — he grabs the rebound, shoots again — it's in and the game has to go into overtime — but wait, the referee says the light went off before the shot — the Crusaders storm the officials screaming that Tommy was fouled — the stands break into an uproar — one of the refs runs for the dressing room — arguments and tempers flare, but to no avail. Radios are shut off on the Hill and Holy Cross has been knocked out of the NCAA Tournament.

Number three returns to the football field. After losing to Syracuse seven straight times, the Crusaders finally came from behind in the last minutes on the strength of Tommy Greene's passing and running to finally beat the Orange, 20-19. Losing 19-14 in the waning minutes of the game to favored Syracuse, all hope of a Crusader comeback seemed to be gone. Then came the miraculous finish. Greene led the Cross on an 80-yard drive in six plays, climaxed by a quarterback rollout from the five-yard line to end a seven-year dominance by the Orange. The some 200 students who made the long trek to Archbold Stadium flooded the field and were paid a hundredfold for their spirit.

The first three of these four HC sports events were very close and wound up in hair-raising finishes. The final one was just the opposite; there was no doubt as to the outcome.

January, 1955 The sport was basketball, the place was the Boston Garden, the opponent was Notre Dame, and the score was 93-57 as the Cross swamped the Irish. Four times HC had met ND and each time had come away on the short end of the score. Twice that very year they had fallen prey to the "Irish Jinx"; once in a regular season game, and previously in the finals of the Sugar Bowl. With Tommy Heinsohn scoring 35 points, the Crusaders played perhaps the best single game of basketball in our three and a half year experience. They could do no wrong.

BALL . . . appears to be the cry of Brown's Ed Roedema as he comes up with the elusive spheroid despite the frantic efforts of Holy Cross' Tom Ryan. Looking on anxiously at the action which took place in the Worcester Tournament, won by HC, are the Crusaders' Tony Karpawich and Art Andreoli.

Joe Hughes Picks Irish Contest As Biggest Obstacle Facing Team

by Gerry McLaughlin

Senior Joe Hughes, 6' 5" captain of the Holy Cross basketball team, settled on the edge of his bed Tuesday, scratched his head James Dean style a couple of times and tried his hand at meeting the press.

Roommate Charlie George, an old hand at the radio interview racket, sat in on the session to lend moral support. Sports-lover Walter "Fud" Malkiewicz and strolling player John Kennedy were also present in the Hanselman III cubicle where Hughes hangs his hat.

Hughes, a B.S. economics major who made the Rhode Island All-State basketball team while playing for his home town high school, Central Falls, was asked what New England teams, in his estimation, look like post-season tournament prospects.

"There are a lot of good teams in New England this year," he said, "but Dartmouth, Boston College, Boston University, Connecticut, Providence and Yale seem to be the teams to beat as far as we are concerned."

"Dartmouth is the toughest club we've met so far, and their boy Kaufman has given us a lot of trouble. They look like they will take the Ivy League title."

NCAA Berth

Brother Kennedy paused in examining his Luger, a Christmas gift, no doubt, and ventured the opinion that Connecticut, with only Yankee conference competition to beat for an NCAA playoff berth, has an easy time of it. Hughes nodded and looked for another question.

"What's the toughest game remaining on our schedule?" the fourth man asked.

"The Notre Dame game should be the roughest for us," said Captain Joe, "especially since we are playing them in South Bend. With all that home backing they figure to be as strong as Dartmouth is when they play at home."

"O. K., Joe," neighbor Malkiewicz asked, "assuming that we wind up with a pretty good record, which

When Tom Greene was chosen the O'Melia Award winner, he became the first Holy Cross junior to receive the prize and thus also is in line to become the only double winner. Among other post-season accolades given the talented quarterback, he was selected the outstanding player to face Syracuse this year, was picked to Marquette's opponent team and was chosen the Outstanding Athlete in the Worcester area for 1957.

The already very busy Bill Crowley has taken over still another job for the coming baseball season. Bill is going to assist Norm Gillis and Curt Gowdy broadcasting the Boston Red Sox games.

Dick O'Brien, '56, who played baseball and hockey while here at the Cross has turned out to be quite an athlete since his induction into the Army. After the baseball season at Schofield Barracks, he showed up on the football team and quarterbacked the Wolfhounds to a 9-1 record. Then he further surprised everyone by turning out for basketball. In his first game with only two days practice, Dick hooped 19 points.

The Intramural Basketball season is swinging into high gear this week with the usual ample amount of players. However, there is still need for more officials to lighten the burden of those now refereeing games. Freshmen and sophomores are especially urged to sign up.

Frosh Quintets Show Surprising Strength As 'Murals Get Underway After Layoff

Although the second week of the Intramural basketball season was cut short by the Christmas vacation, there were several significant developments. The freshmen continued their dominance in the Western League as Fenwick West topped Hanselman III, 32-31, and Fenwick East walloped Lehy III, 91-38. This is the highest scoring total of the young season.

In the Northern League, Wheeler I and Carlin III both won their second games without a loss by disposing of Alumni I and Carlin I.

NORTH LEAGUE

Wheeler I 28 — Alumni I 17
Alumni III 80 — Alumni I 43
Carlin III 43 — Carlin I 38

Dave Mills and Stan Bialous divided 16 points between them as Wheeler I rang up its second win in as many starts. The sophomores from Alumni III turned on a fine display of shooting as they ran Alumni I off the court. Buzzell with 24 and Walz with 19 led the way for the winners. Bernie Buzynski with 19 points was high man for the losers. In the only other Northern League game, Carlin III, after a slow start, edged out Carlin I to keep their record unblemished. Reid and Healy each netted 12 points.

WEST LEAGUE

Fenwick West 32—Hanselman III 31
Fenwick East 91 — Lehy III 38
Off-Campus Frosh 33—Campion 18
For the second week in a row, the freshmen dominated the Western League. Fenwick West held off the seniors' last period rally. Six players hit for double figures in Fenwick East's impressive win. Kelly, with 27 markers, 20 of which came in the second half, and Pannella with 16 led the slaughter. Cowlin paced the Off-Campus Frosh with 17 in their win.

EAST LEAGUE

Fenwick West 46 — Hanselman I 38
Worc. Seniors 45 — Lehy II 36
Hanselman IV 40 — Beaven III 37
Fenwick, led by Moynihan and Mulligan, defeated the seniors on the strength of a 15 point fourth quarter. The Worcester Seniors were led by Quinn who threw in 15 points. The week's most exciting game saw Hanselman IV hold off the juniors' last period rally to win 40-37.

dwindled steadily and at the final whistle the score was tied, 69-69. Yale ran away in the overtime session as the Cross also lost Joe Hughes on fouls. Bill Badman, a substitute, led the way with a 15-point second half.

In a repeat performance, the Crusaders next dropped a 69-64 decision to "Doggie" Julian's Dartmouth Indians. The Crusaders jumped out in front, due mainly to the shooting of Art Andreoli and Jack Whelan but once again a substitute came off the bench to lead the opposition to victory.

Charlie Kaufman, a sophomore, hit from all angles to tally 17 points in the second half. Kaufman's uncanny shooting, combined with Dartmouth's pressing zone, a long-time Crusader nemesis, proved too much for the Cross. Andreoli led both clubs with 21 points.

Next on tap for the Purple hoopers was the Worcester Invitational Tournament. The Crusaders whipped Brown, 72-52, in the first game to win the right to gain revenge against Dartmouth who advanced to the finals at the expense of Colgate. The Bruin game was a rout as Roy Leenig practically cleared the bench. The issue was never in doubt as the Cross, a noticeably first-half ball club, hung up a 20 point halftime lead. Art Andreoli once again set the scoring pace.

Beat Dartmouth

In the finale, it was The Big Green's pressing zone against the determination of the Purple five. This time the outcome was different as the Crusaders jumped out to stay. The Indians were 19 points down and fought back to gain a tie, but the Cross opened up to defeat them, 77-72.

Andreoli, Hughes and Whelan all hit double figures, with Andreoli hitting a season's peak of 27 points.

The Cross won its third straight from surprising Assumption in what can best be termed a free throw battle. A total of 77 free throws were taken, the Cross having a decided edge. Despite the fact that they did not score a field goal in the last thirteen minutes, the Crusaders managed to win by a 72-64 margin.

It has become apparent that the future hopes of the Crusaders rest in their ability to cope with a pressing zone defense. The rebounding, which was considered a problem at the beginning of the season, has been more than adequately taken care of by Joe Hughes, who is averaging 14 a game, and sophomore Ralph Brandt, who is right behind.

tournament would you rather have us play in if we get the chance to choose, NIT or NCAA?"

Hughes grinned and said: "We'll take whichever one we can get into. It's a long way to the end of the season. Let's take them as they come, one at a time."

"Talk about our team, Joe," suggested Charlie George.

"Well, the squad spirit is the highest I've seen it in four years," Hughes said, remembering all of them, including the Heinsohn-Liebler era.

"The bench has been filling in well," he added.

"Best Men"

After a pause he was asked, "Who are some of the best men you've played against?"

He reflected for a moment, then said, "Bill Russell, Si Green, Lennie Rosenbluth and Hank Nowak were about the best through the last couple of years."

"San Francisco and North Carolina were the best teams we've played since I started here," he added, anticipating the next question.

"The best Holy Cross player I've played with?" he asked.

"Who else—Whitey."

That's Heinsohn he's talking about, you late arrivals.

MEMO TO MAESTROS: is your band dawdling instead of tootling? Is it full of feeble fifers and drooping drummers? Well, this musical slowdown may be traceable to lack of Luckies. Better give your band a break—and make it a Lucky one! A Lucky, you see, is a light smoke—the right smoke for everyone. It's all cigarette—all naturally light, wonderfully good-tasting tobacco. And Luckies' fine tobacco is toasted to taste even better. Now then, what's a marching band that never gets a Lucky break? Why, it's a Sore Corps! (Wasn't that cymbal?)

Barristers To Hear Talk By Villanova Law Dean

Dr. Harold Gill Reuschlein, Dean of the Villanova University Law School, will lecture at the meeting of the St. Thomas More Pre-Legal Society, Tuesday, January 14 at 7 p.m. in Room 22.

Dr. Reuschlein will speak on the subject of "The Nature and Ethics of Law."

Dr. Reuschlein received his Bachelor of Arts Degree from the University of Iowa and his Bachelor of Laws at Yale University. In 1934, Cornell University made him a Doctor of Jurisprudence.

A noted lecturer and author, Dr. Reuschlein has written many legal works, among them a text on Jurisprudence. Before his appointment in 1953 as Dean of the Villanova Law School, he served as a lecturer and professor of Law at Georgetown University, Notre Dame, and the Universities of Pittsburgh and Syracuse.

Legal Education

In his address, Dr. Reuschlein will present a clear concept of Legal education, stressing the place of the natural law in the study of law and also showing how ethics may be infused into the curricula of law students.

Dr. Reuschlein is the first in a series of law school speakers which the Law Club will present during the second semester. The next two speakers will be Reverend Robert Drinan, S.J., Dean of the Boston College Law School, who will address the students on February 5, and Professor Raymond P. O'Keefe of Fordham Law School who will speak at the College on February 19.

Glee Club Plans Campus Concert With City Choir

The Fieldhouse will resound with the voices of the combined Freshman-Varsity Glee Club at the annual campus concert scheduled for Tuesday, February 18, at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Frederick S. Mirliani, '32, Glee Club director, and Robert P. Roche, '58, student director, will lead the club's 100 members in the presentation of the 1958 program.

This year the St. Paul's Cathedral Choir of Worcester under the direction of Reverend Arthur A. Ouillette, '50, will also appear at the affair.

Admission to the concert is free.

Peter B. Cinelli, '60, and Robert P. Roche, '58, are the featured vocal soloists.

The club's repertoire for the evening will include medleys of old favorites, in addition to new selections. Presentations will include "A Holy Cross Medley," "Students' Marching Song," "Winter Song," "Were You There," "The Last Words of David," and "Song of the Vagabond."

public or private schools. "The aim of this program is to stimulate the interest of these advanced students in the field of mathematics, with an eye to giving science the mathematicians it so desperately needs," said Prof. Hartnett.

System At Fault

"The main fault of the present system lies in the fact that it emphasizes too much computation and solution of equations, which today can be easily accomplished by a machine, at the expense of teaching the theory, idea and foundation of mathematics," said Dr. McBrien, a leader in the adoption of the new system. His ideas are borne out in a survey made by the College Entrance Examination Board, which recommended a sweeping elimination of some traditional courses and major changes in others.

"Modern teaching," he said, "emphasizes working out basic ideas which are found throughout math, and establishing a framework that makes the entire subject more meaningful."

News Briefs:

Radio Revamps Shows

The new year brought a WCHC program revamping for the 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. slots formerly filled by "Purple Bandstand" and "Rhythm Rendezvous."

WCHC scheduled "Purple Bandstand" to feature popular music from 1:30 to 3 p.m. "Rhythm Rendezvous," now devoted exclusively to standards and instrumental music, runs up to 4:15 p.m. A new program "Jazz from Studio B," follows the 15 minute news program for the remaining hour.

Summer cruises for NROTC midshipmen will sail for both Atlantic and Pacific ports. Cruise Bravo, for freshman and junior regulars, will steam for the North Atlantic and visit northern European ports.

Junior contract students will take their first cruise, Cruise Charlie, in the mid-Pacific, with visits to ports in that area.

Tomorrow at 2 p.m., Catholic college students from the New England area will attend the first NFCCS-sponsored campus workshop of the year.

NFCCS members and other interested students will travel to Anshurst College in Putnam, Conn., for the discussion on "Family Life."

Sunday will find St. Joseph's College in West Hartford, Conn., hosting a similar workshop discussion on the CCD program as conducted by the colleges of the participating panelists.

Beginning next September, the Massachusetts Council of the Knights of Columbus will award a yearly scholarship to a freshman entering Holy Cross. Any Massachusetts high school student may apply for the full tuition four-year award. Applicants must inform Reverend Miles F. Fay, S.J., Dean of admissions, prior to March 15.

Preference will be given to the sons of Massachusetts members of the Knights of Columbus.

National competition for 165 scholarships in 13 foreign countries under the Fulbright Program will close on January 15. Application must be made to the Institute of International Education in New York or to its regional offices.
